

A top-down schematic diagram of the robot's internal layout. The diagram shows a rectangular chassis with various components arranged inside. At the top left is a motor. To its right is a battery pack. Below the motor is a sensor unit. In the center is a control board with various electronic components. At the bottom is another sensor unit. The diagram uses black lines to represent the components and their connections, with labels in Chinese characters identifying specific parts.

- SEE NOTE MOD1